

The Power of Connections

Cachematrix is a global financial technology firm that aims to simplify cash management for leading financial institutions and their corporate clients - but we couldn't do this without the dozens of connections and integration points that power the Cachematrix Platform. We believe that these connections, coupled with our integration expertise, enable us to bring a robust and innovative liquidity solution to our clients.

Understand the Cachematrix Difference

We do the heavy lifting.

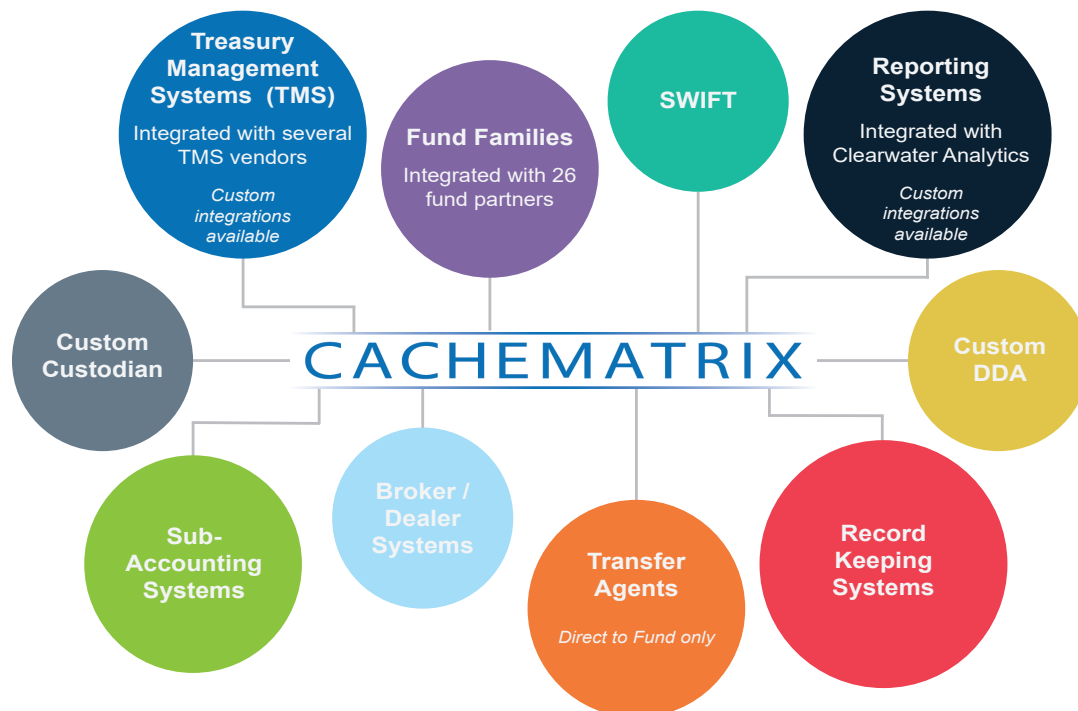

We know it's likely that implementing a liquidity platform for your organization isn't your only business priority, so let us utilize our expertise and relationships to help build a dynamic solution that meets your clients' cash management needs.

We offer a broader, more holistic view.

Many of our integrations, such as our treasury management system (TMS) and reporting system integrations, allow for straight-through processing, which seek to provide a more holistic view of portfolio positions and balances across multiple technologies.

We know "one-size-fits-all" doesn't always fit all.

Custom integrations are available because we understand that not all organizations are created alike and therefore may require unique solutions. We offer several customizable integrations, including our TMS integrations, custodian integrations, DDA integrations and more.
